HESITANCY IN NEWARK

These past several days in Newark, N. J., running from July 12 to July 17, 1967, saw rioting, arson, looting and murder almost unparalleled in the history of American cities. A UPI story on Saturday morning July 15th said, "Gov. Richard J. Hughes declared a state of emergency and, because of bands of Negroes battling police and the state militia." The story proceeded to say, "In declaring the state of emergency, Hughes called the situation 'very dangerous' and deteriorating."

The story that morning went on to say, "Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes said a third of the city was under siege, cordoned off by police and National Guardsmen and in the grip of what he termed 'criminal insurrection.'"

Street mobs built up in size before sundown after a wild daylong orgy of looting, and police sharpshooters duelled with rooftop snipers."

Gov. Hughes went on to say, "This amounts to criminal insurrection against society. There is no order to shoot and kill but police have the authority to defend themselves."

It was right here, perhaps, that Gov. Hughes made his worst mistake. Looting has traditionally been recognized as one of the worst crimes that can be committed, because those engaged in looting are not only breaking secular and religious law by stealing, they are at the same time through mob rule preying upon the misfortunes that have befallen others.

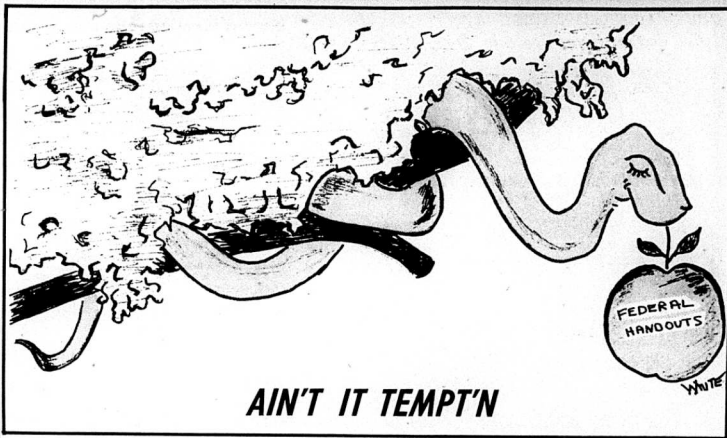

There has been traditional in this country, therefore, where the rights of individuals are protected — for the mayors of the cities and the governor of the state to use the police and the militia orders that when they find looting taking place, they are to shoot first and ask questions later. This order would apply regardless of race — black or white — and it is to be believed that such an order is more likely to prevent looting and stop looting than any other order that might be given.

But what happened in the case of Newark? The Sunday morning story went on to say, "Looters moved openly and defiantly in and out of smashed and burned stores, beneath the gaze of the governor. The Governor said he was appalled by the bizarre holiday air of the indefatigable looters—surging gangs of laughing men, women and children."

The story said that Hughes invoked the state's emergency defense law which "permits him in a civilian role to lay down any rules needed to protect life and property in an area of natural or man-made disaster. It offers from martial law, which would grant Hughes similar power, but in his role as commander-in-chief of the National Guard. It was understood that Hughes considered the civilian measure less likely to further inflame Newark Negroes."

It is this attitude of hesitancy, this attitude of fear on the part of city and state rulers that enables them to look on with equanimity while looters "laughingly" steal the property that belongs to the store owners and their stockholders. This attitude cannot continue in any city or in any state of the union if we are to remain a nation that respects laws and order. In other words, if we are to remain a civilized nation, law and order must be observed by all people alike.

Only to the extent that the mayors of our cities and the governors of our states have learned their lesson from what happened in Newark, N. J., can we be said to have made any progress.

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Bug Hookum announced at the country store Saturday night he might be going off to college next year. He brought a clipping from some magazine telling about a fellow 70-year-old giving his college diploma last month, and the piece said the University of Kentucky was now offering free tuition to all students over 65 years old.

Ed Doolittle said he was strong again this idea. He allowed as how going to college after you was too old to work was like lighting the lantern after you had left off the foot-log. You could look back and see where you fell from, but it wasn't going to help you broke leg none.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, said it was a shame to turn the colleges into old folks homes when they were turning down young students on account of not having room for 'em. They was some things, said Zeke, that run pretty good backwards, but time ain't one of them.

Clem Webster of the Great Society wasn't agreed exact with Ed and Zeke. He said they was plenty of useful work for old folks and the Government had now took note of this fact. For instance, he reported, he had saw where they had a Federal foster grandparents program that was working real good, special in the big cities. Retired people was paid $1.50 a hour to visit orphans and take 'em to the zoo and fer walks in the parks and such things. He said he had saw a Government report where they now got 2,500 foster grandparents in 27 states and the program was growing.

And Josh Chickopper was of the opinion they might be a great future for old folks in the U. S. postal system. He said the More ZIP they sit the more problems they got. For instance, he said he had saw in the papers where the Postmaster General reported money was now running so short they might have to stop all deliveries and let the folks come to the post office fer their mail. Josh claimed this was a good chance for old folks. They could just leave the mail sacks at the office and old folks like Ed and Zeke could get a job dumping it out on the floor and piling it up according to the map. East and West like the newspaper ZIP and a fellow living West of town could look through the West pile.

Ed claimed this was Great Society junk, but he agreed the day might come when old folks would have to get a job to pay some of the taxes fer our big give-away program. For instance, he had saw a piece in the papers where Poland owed us $30 million and we had agreed to knock off $10 million if they would teach English in their schools. He figured, afore the deal was closed, if they folks in Poland would learn to say "thank you" in English we might mark the whole bill paid.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Our Father Gives Peace In Time of Sorrow

Rev. Cloud

By Rev. Stephen L. Cloud
God never leaves His trusting child comfortless. Indeed, He often sends His consolation ahead of time so that it is on hand, like a healing balm, ready to be applied when the trial of trial scars our heart by some sorrow or disappointment.

Some years ago a dear friend of mine was invited to preach to a congregation that had seen six or seven of its members snatched away by death, in a few weeks' time. He was impressed with the thought that he should bring a sermon of comfort. Having prepared his message, he spoke earnestly of the necessity of seeing God's all-wise Hand in even the most trying circumstances. "If you should have to stand at the grave of some loved one," he said pointedly, "would you know the comfort of God and be able to say with peace and joy in your heart, 'The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord?'" Many hearts were warmed by his message and those in the audience who had been bereaved found a rainbow in their tears. He was quite surprised, however, to find his father-in-law standing at the back of the church waiting to greet him. Quickly taking him aside, the relative said brokenly, "I have some very sad and shocking news for you. Little Johnny, who was when you left this morning, suddenly went into convulsion and died. He was with the Lord while you were on the platform preaching." Shocked, the father later told him he then realized why the Lord had commissioned him to deliver that special message of comfort. "The Holy Spirit preached the whole sermon back to me, as I rode from that little village to our home. God had prepared my heart in advance to enable me to bear with Christian grace the loss of our precious baby."

How richly our Heavenly Father comforts us in our hour of need — yea, often ahead of time!

Meditation

A SUDDEN squall on Lake Minnetonka, in Minnesota, made our outboard motor useless. We had to ride the waves to shore. Our situation reminded us of the disciples during the storm on the Sea of Galilee.

It seems the disciples felt that Jesus should suspend natural laws—for their safety. However, Jesus gave them a greater miracle than they expected. He did still the troubled waters, but He also gave peace and calmness to His fearful companions. He gave them the peace and faith which not only saw them through that storm on Galilee, but through numerous later storms as His apostles.

Christ still gives this kind of peace. Often we pray only to get through the immediate crisis. Our Lord strengthens us for the present. He will also give strength for the unknown crisis in all our tomorrow.

Following the ceremony, mothers and daughters will have a dinner, after which games will be played.

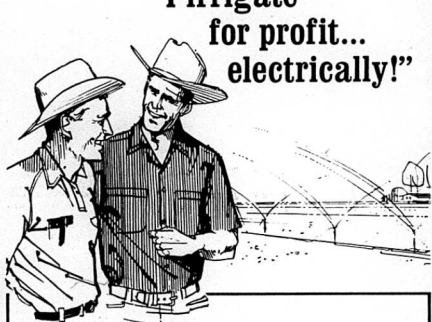

Mrs. T. L. Hamblen is in charge of arrangements for the event.

Summer Library Fun

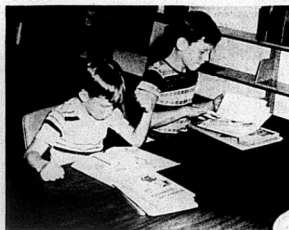

Librarian Betty Harris stands between just two of the many items donated to the Belle Glade Municipal Library. The palm is from Mr. and Mrs. John Kinlaw and the composite picture is a gift of the Methodist Kindergarten class this year.

These girls, 'good customers', are allowed to check out any number of books they wish, within reason. Children just registering with the library are restricted to two books each. After they have returned books several times and have proven they can be good customers, they are allowed to check out as many as they wish. Books may be checked out for two weeks and fines for late books are 2c a day.

Selections made, Larri Collins and Cindy Henly have their books checked out by Miss Yvonne Lockmiller, and assistant librarian.

Reading can be a delight, especially for two small boys with 13,000 books from which to choose from.

Spending part of their summer vacation reading in the new air conditioned Library are Shaws and Kim Kinney.

Mrs. Harris, Librarian reminds patrons that on Monday when the Library is closed, or after hours, they may return their books to the Auto Page Return on the driveway in the rear of the building.

Librarians not only help with selection of books and keep trace of book circulation but must also prepare card catalogue books, order new books and repair damaged books. Mrs. Harold Burdine, Assistant Librarian is busy cataloging 1,000 books on loan from the state library agency. Seen here helping her in Mrs. Paul Goldman. Not pictured was Mrs. Ann Lovell. Mrs. Goldman and Mrs. Lovell have volunteered their time to help the library staff over the hump of the move into the new library and the addition of the new books.

Sometimes a straight line between two points is not the fastest, safest or shortest route. It seems this is true in going from Miami to Jacksonville, (or Belle Glade to Jacksonville).

If you first go west to Orlando, via the Sunshine Sky Parkway and then east on Interstate 95 to Jacksonville, the trip from Miami to Jacksonville should take only five hours and 56 minutes.

175,000 MILES

(or how a DATSUN can give you a pocketbook a pickup!)
A few months ago, a man came into a Datsun dealer in California, and asked his agents to adjust. Usually he mentioned he had 163,000 miles on his 1964 Datsun Pickup. During this time he had put in 4 changes of spark plugs, a new tire now and then and oil changes whenever he got around to it. The dealer gave him a Datsun a minor tune up and some other services which cost $52.00 and he was on his way. Today that Datsun has over 175,000 miles on it and it's still going strong!
